Death of Jong Ming, the Chinese Reformer.

After an illness of two weeks, Jong Jong Ming had been ailing for about two months, but his sickness was no thought to be serious until about two months ago made him one of the him and found that he was suffering the works ago.

and walked into the city, going to and walked into the city, going to a Chinese laundry on Third South street, where he was attended for a few days by the Chinese doctor. The Chinese doctor pronounced his case hopeless, and his Chinese frie ids secured him a room in a rooming house on the corner of State and Second South streets.

Last Monday, under the advice of Dr. Fisher, he was removed to the Holy Cross hospital. In the meantime he had developed a case of pneumonia, and despite the efforts of Drs. Fisher and Hospier to relieve him, he gradually grew weaker, until shortly Jong Ming was born in China forty-two years ago and came to San Fransisco about ten years ago. From there he came to Utah, and has been here, living in Ogden and this city, about six years. He made his living by cooking, and having more than average intelligence and being of a studious nature, he was soon induced to join the Chinese Sunday school of the Congregational church, and later joined the church.

Will remember the courage with the John Ming fought the reigning in the Chinese cuarters, and dealeged threats against his life, through the place, nailing his nings on the doors of transgressors he law and raiding their places. Insit against gambling made him pa in the eyes of the religious peofind the news of his death will be respected. The body of the reformer is now at Evans' undertaining parlors and the funeral will be held at 4:30 this afterneon from the First Congregational Church.

The deceased was unmarried, and so far as known has no relatives in this country.
